PRODUCT INFORMATION

"I noticed the same behavior in everyone involved in business meetings. People lean forward in the very low seats, try to conceal their computer screen, and hold their hand around their mouth while talking on their mobile phone. I wondered whether I could create a piece of furniture that felt like it was a small, separate room. I pulled up the edges just far enough so that when you sit up very straight you can see over the edge, but when you sit back you get a private and secluded space", says Eero Koivisto.
